WORK IN LIBRARY

MRS. DANFORD IS REARRANGING BOOKSHELVES AND ADDING NEW SPACE FOR BOOKS

Glendale library does not look to be a very big affair, yet it has 5,296 cardholders. This is a real count. Every time a cardholder drops out, the number of card held by him or her is transferred to the next new applicant. In this way there are no dead numbers figuring on the lists as real members. When one thinks of it that is a remarkable number of readers for a small town like Glendale, with less than 8,000 inhabitants.

"There is a constant movement among our readers," said Mrs. Danford. "They are constantly moving out of the town and new ones are arriving in their place; but when such a move takes place we assign the old number to the newcomer. In this way our lists are always alive. Glendale is one of the most remarkable little cities of which I have ever heard. The proportion of readers to population is very high. The city has an unusually large percentage of educated people."

"In order to handle all this work, which is growing every day, we are compelled at the present time to rearrange our shelves. It is necessary to make room for more books and to get them so arranged that it will be easy to find them in the proper classification. For this purpose we are putting in new shelves. This addition will enable us to handle a great many more books. As a matter of fact if all the books belonging to the library should be under our roof at one time we should not have accommodation for them. Fortunately a great proportion of them are always out."

"There are more than 5,000 books in the library and the number increases daily. There are quite a number of reference books and it is noticeable that these books are consulted by a large number of people. It is very pleasing to me also to note that the work done by the library at the summer lectures has borne and is bearing fruit. The children are now making intelligent use of the catalogues and have benefitted greatly thereby."

"I notice also that a much more solid class of literature is being handled by the children than heretofore. In fact, until they learned the proper use of the catalogues, they did not know that many excellent books were to be found in the library. The schools and the many clubs of the city have created a large demand for non-fiction reading."

"It is easy to notice also that the war has had a marked effect on the use of books. There has been a heavy demand for historical and geographical books by those who are interested in the war, and that is nearly everybody. Then, too, scientific books have been greatly in demand, for the same reason. Books that tell of the latest inventions and especially of electrical invention have been in very large demand."

"In short, the librarian has every reason to be gratified with her work during the past season and with the intelligent interest that is being taken in the library by all classes as a means of education."

BASKETBALL GAME

When the Junior basketball team lined up against the sophomores for the second game of the season Friday afternoon, it was apparent that the Juniors had the best of it. Their tall center, Hagin, who is considerably more than six feet in height, handled the ball in a manner that savored of the magical, as his great reach enabled him to make plays impossible to those of less stature. This was the second game of the season. The teams are lining up well and before long should be in first-class shape. The following were the teams:

DR. LUSBY SOME SHINER

Dr. C. D. Lusby and Guy H. Morton met in Orr's barber shop, 1109 West Broadway, Glendale, Thursday evening, and each desirous of purchasing one of John's popular shines, but John being in attendance at a chicken fry that night, could not wait upon these gentlemen. The "shine" utensils being at hand Lusby and Morton decided that a third party would not be necessary, so each agreed to shine the others shoes. The work began and while Morton proved himself a neat and careful "shine" man, he was far outdistanced by the Doctor, whose experience in teeth polishing gave him a proficiency that places him in the professional class.

WOMEN STUDY CIVICS

POLITICAL SCIENCE SECTION OF TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB IS INAUGURATED

The initial meeting of the Political Science and Civics section of the Tuesday Afternoon club was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of the curator, Mrs. A. L. Weaver, 235 S. Kenwood St. The afternoon proved a most profitable one for all who were privileged to enjoy hearing the discussions of various governmental questions.

The study hour of this department is open to club members only, but the open meeting which immediately follows is free to the public and all citizens are urged to attend. This meeting is held in the library of the Intermediate school.

During the study session of this meeting, Mrs. Weaver gave a most interesting account of the manners, customs and religion of the early colonists up to the settlement of Virginia, and Mrs. Jones reviewed some of the beginnings of government in America.

The purpose of this section is to learn the fundamental principles of our government, both national and municipal. After reviewing the formation of the first council in America of which the famous John Smith was a member, the section adjourned to listen to a splendid, clear, concise address upon, "The Evolution of Municipal Forms of Government," by Mr. Frederic Baker of this city. Mr. Baker is a student of this subject and has read deeply along all lines, as well as having had much practice in incorporating many of our Southern California towns, he having been city attorney of Glendale at the time of its incorporation. Among other things the speaker said that the study of municipal government appeals to club women and all other women from the standpoint of dealing with affairs which directly affect the home: Health, sanitation, clean streets, pure water, pure food, regulation of public utilities, city planning, public parks, gambling ordinances, cigarettes, poolrooms, selling of intoxicants, etc. He reviewed the forming of the first city, spoken of in the Bible, 1st chapter of Genesis, 4th verse, touched on the Roman cities and followed history up to the present day of charter government, commission form of government and cities of first, second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth class. He explained the steps to be taken in securing charter government in a way to clear up many technicalities. He also made the commission form of government a most interesting and illuminating subject.

The ladies felt that in the hour spent listening to the splendid discourse much had been gained which would have required hours of study for them to have learned. A rising vote of thanks was given Mr. Baker and many expressed the wish to hear it again.

The beautiful home of Mrs. A. L. Weaver was decorated in gorgeous rose colored chrysanthemums and the hostess, at close of study hour, served delightful refreshments, carrying out the color scheme of pink and white.

The next meeting will be held the first Thursday in December, as the fourth Thursday of November is Thanksgiving. All club members are welcome to attend the study department and public in general to attend open meeting which follows at Intermediate school.

At the next open meeting of the Political Science section, Thursday, Dec. 2, at the Intermediate school, the speaker will be Mrs. Estelle Lawton Lindsay, in the subject, "Woman in City Government." The public is cordially invited.

PARKER-COVERLEY WEDDING

What was pronounced a very pleasing event by the forty guests who were present was the marriage of Miss Vera Parker and Mr. Clarence Coverley, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Parker, 331 S. Central avenue. Mr. Coverley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Coverley of Hollywood. The bridegroom is a Los Angeles business man. The bridesmaid was Miss Ruth Shackleton of Los Angeles and the groomsmen Mr. Joseph Coverley. The bride wore a traveling costume and after the wedding, which was solemnized by the Rev. Dale of Los Angeles, a wedding breakfast was served. The breakfastroom was beautifully decorated with ferns and pink cosmos. The other rooms were tastefully decorated with yellow chrysanthemums. The couple went to San Diego for their honeymoon. They will be at home Nov. 15 at 406 Ivy street.

BIRDS OF CALIFORNIA

INTELLIGENCE OF BIRDS CAUSES THEM TO SEEK CALIFORNIA FOR THEIR HOMES

Convincing proof has been found of the great intelligence of birds.

Director Joseph Grinnell of the University of California Museum of Vertebrate Zoology reports that there are already more different species of birds in California than in any other state in the Union, and more kinds coming all the time.

This is no more question of size. The vast state of Texas is two-thirds as large as California, but it has nowhere nearly as many kinds of birds, though it does come second.

What's more, the 541 species of birds already living here are not going to be permitted to enjoy a monopoly. Every kind of bird in the country is trying to move to California. There are fifty more known species of birds in California today than thirteen years ago.

A large share of those additions are unquestionably newcomers. One such "straggler," as the bird-men call such cases of a pioneer seeking to lead the way for his tribe into a new land, was a Mother Cary's Chicken (a Wilson Stormy Petrel), which has no business anywhere away from the Atlantic Ocean, but which was captured off Monterey.

Another venturesome explorer was an Anhinga, or water turkey, which belongs in Florida and the Mexican tropics, but which joined the rush of new settlers in the Imperial Valley. The Tennessee warbler and the Louisiana water thrush both grew restless in their Southern homes and made their way to California, one being found at Pasadena and the other at Mecca, on the Colorado desert.

Sooner or later, predicts Professor Grinnell, practically every species known in North America will be found occurring, at one time or another, in California.

The great advance made in recent years in knowledge of California birds is indicated by the fact that Professor Grinnell's new 217-page book, "A Distributional List of the Birds of California," just published by the Cooper Ornithological club as a contribution from the California Museum of Vertebrate Zoology, lists 541 species of birds as now known in California, as compared with the 353 species catalogued in 1868 by the pioneer ornithologist, Dr. G. G. Cooper, of the Geological Survey, the 445 species catalogued in 1892, the 491 known in 1902, and the total of 530 listed in 1912. Widespread search and the gathering and careful study of great series of museum specimens, through generous provision made by Miss Annie M. Alexander for the maintenance of the California Museum of Vertebrate Zoology, are responsible for this increase, as well as the constant new immigration of birds.

Professor Grinnell reports that of the 541 species of which he tells the local status, 168 are water birds, 373 land birds, and 108 game birds. There are six species of hummingbirds and 23 species of hawks. While the prolific sparrow is represented by 96 species, there are only 19 different kinds of owls in California.

VIRDEN-KRANZ RECITAL

When the Kranz-Virden recital opened Friday night in the large hall of the Masonic Temple it was greeted by an audience that filled the place. The audience was a characteristic musical audience skilled in knowledge of the program and withal indulgent to the youth of the players. There was not much call for indulgence, however, for the pupils of Mr. Julius Kranz and of Miss Melicent Virden were excellently trained and gave a good account of themselves. Both on violin and piano the children, even those of very few years, showed evidence of the thorough instruction that has been given them.

Where so many pupils did excellently it would be invidious to single out any particular ones for comment. The audience evidently thought likewise and distributed its applause ungrudgingly and without favor. The program was graduated and a number of interesting pieces came at the close. Mr. Julius Kranz' violin ensemble in which Winifred Jones, Helen Beach, Isaiah Sinclair, Daniel Campbell, Forrest Jordan and Steve Beebe took part was at once a revelation of what good teaching can do for pupils.

ALUMNI TO MEET

The University of Nebraska Alumni club of Southern California will hold its quarterly banquet this evening at 6 p. m., at the Pin Ton, Los Angeles. The entertainment will be in the nature of a Halloween affair. The club comprises a number of Glendale residents, who are anticipating a delightful evening.

SOPHOMORES DEFEATED

SENIORS DEFEAT SOPHOMORES AFTER A CLOSELY CONTESTED STRUGGLE

Much interest was displayed by the students in the debate between the Seniors and Sophomores, at the High School Friday. The Seniors of this year were the same class, who, as Juniors, last year beat the Senior graduating class. The Sophomores were Freshmen of last year and beat the Sophomores of that year.

The debate naturally created a strong competition between the two classes, as both could put in the field debaters of experience and tried ability. The subject of the debate was "Should the Government Own an American Merchant Marine?" In view of the practical wiping out of the American merchant marine on the Pacific ocean the subject possessed special interest at this time. The team for the Seniors consisted of: Katherine Green, Frank Bridgeford, Merwyn Mills and Joseph Maier. The Sophomore team was: Harlan Durand, Herbert Scheuer, Roberta Rosa and Marion Lehman. The Seniors debated both sides of the question. After a most interesting contest the Seniors showed so much accurate knowledge of the subject and also so superior a debating power that it was evident that they would come out ahead with quite a few points.

When the points scored were added up it was found that the Seniors had won 1104 to 985. The judges were the Rev. John Troy, the Rev. W. E. Edmonds, Mrs. A. L. Weaver, Mr. T. W. Preston, Miss Eaton and Mr. Morris. The Senior class will now have its name inscribed twice on the red banner.

The victorious Senior team will now take part in the coming interschool debate, Nov. 19, with South Pasadena and Santa Monica schools.

PROMINENT MILWAUKEE WOMAN HERE

Mrs. John C. Kleist, an artist, a well-known clubwoman and wife of a prominent Milwaukee attorney, was a guest at the home of Atty. and Mrs. Frederick Baker, 109 N. Maryland, Sunday and Monday. Mrs. Kleist was so greatly impressed with the beauties of this particular section of the valley that she decided to change her plans and is returning to Glendale today to spend two or three days in the shadow of our beautiful hills. This lady resides in the exclusive lake shore section of her home city, and she sees the value of our varied scenery from an artistic standpoint. She will likely make some sketches while here to be worked out later. This is not the first time that our hills and mountains have proved an artist's inspiration.

HONOR INTERMEDIATE TEACHERS

The Parent-Teachers' Association of the Intermediate School will give a unique and interesting entertainment for the teachers of that school next Tuesday evening, instead of Monday evening as has been previously announced in this paper. This will be in place of the annual reception to the teachers.

It is hoped that all parents and patrons of this school will make a special effort to attend and meet the teachers of their children in this informal way.

The entertainment will be an old-fashioned Halloween party and all the usual games and some unusual ones will be provided for the occasion.

Remember the time, Tuesday, Nov. 2, at 8 p. m., and the place, Intermediate School.

ALASKAN DINNER PARTY

What was quite a unique dinner party was enjoyed Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Carlotta Vanatta, 428 Everett street. Mrs. Vanatta recently returned from a trip to Alaska, by way of the Inland Passage, and kindly invited a number of her friends to hear about the beauties and wonders of that interesting journey and to see the curios she brought home with her. The charming hostess had made a number of sketches of interesting points on her journey, which brought the marvels of that picturesque region vividly before the eyes of her guests. She had also a very large collection of beautiful Indian baskets to show them and a great many curios. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sherer, Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Fred Brackett, Mrs. Baer, Mrs. C. W. Gommel, Mrs. Georgiana Bell, Miss Mary Stevens, Mrs. C. E. Parker and Mrs. J. W. Witham.

The Glendale Lodge of Elks No. 1289 is going to attend divine services in a body tomorrow at the 11:00 service at the Episcopal Church.

PREVENT WOOD DECAY

HALF THE DECIDUOUS FRUIT TREES IN CALIFORNIA INFECTED WITH WOOD RAT

Prevent wood decay in peach trees and California peach orchards will remain profitable twice as long, as now, predicts the University of California.

Half the deciduous fruit trees in California are infected with wood rot. This disease shortens the life of orchards and lessens their yield. It is not a natural result of old age or weakness, but due to the action of wood-destroying fungi.

But there are practicable ways to prevent wood rot. Such is the warning and appeal to the fruit growers of California made by William Titus Horne, associate professor of Plant Pathology in the University of California, in a new publication on "Wood Decay in Orchard Trees," just issued by the college of agriculture and obtainable free by writing to the university.

What is to be done to prevent wood decay? Here are some of the practical suggestions made by Professor Horne:

It is through exposed wood, in wounds or scars not protected by bark, and particularly through large, deep cracks in exposed wood, that the fungi which cause wood decay succeed in invading the tree. Pruning wounds and broken limbs are dangerous points.

Young trees should be shaped, therefore, so as to prevent breaking, and so that in future years it will not be necessary to remove large limbs.

If large limbs must be removed, however, or wherever wood is exposed, there should be treatment to prevent infection. In the first place, there should be close cutting—close to the trunk—so that the wound may heal over as quickly as possible. When a limb three-quarters of an inch or more in diameter must be removed, the exposed wood should be immediately disinfected with a 1-1000 corrosive sublimate solution, to prevent growth of the spores of fungi.

As soon as the surface is dry enough to hold paint well, a heavy coat of hot asphaltum should be applied, to prevent the spores of fungi from finding their way into cracks or wood. At the end of summer all orchard trees should be inspected and exposed wood disinfected and sealed with hot asphaltum, to protect it from infection during the winter.

Trees in which decay is already well advanced can be treated by the method of "tree surgery," but those methods are probably too expensive for general orchard application, so preventive measures are the fruit-growers' chief hope.

The vital need of measures to prevent wood decay in orchard trees has been greatly emphasized by discoveries made recently by two students of the College of Agriculture. C. J. Rodgers found that the "sappy bark disease," one of the most serious ailments affecting apple trees in California, is really due to a wood rot. Then W. W. Thomas, another student, made the surprising discovery that hardly any bearing orchard in California is free from wood decays, and that some orchards have scarcely a sound tree. He found that half the bearing trees are already seriously infected.

The peach tree is most susceptible to decay. Next in order of susceptibility, come the cherry, apple, plum (including prunes), apricot, walnut, pear, olive, and citrus trees. Olive and citrus trees may become hollow without showing the more violent effects of rot, but even they are somewhat crippled. It is in the hot interior valleys that wood decay has proved most serious.

There are about a dozen different species of fungi in California which can penetrate into wood and digest it, leaving little but ash behind. Of these, the "oyster-shell fungus," says Professor Horne, does more harm than all the others combined. In appearance it somewhat resembles a small oyster-shell, gray or brown with dark bands on the upper surface, light colored with vertical pores or tiny tubes on the lower. From those tubes millions of spores are scattered, to find lodgment in exposed pruning wounds or cracks in the wood of trees. When sufficient moisture is furnished—perhaps weeks or months later—the spores begin to grow into destructive fungi.

And the great lesson of prevention is:

To prevent decay, prevent infection of the wounds of trees.

this gifted young man. He will handle this unusual topic in an unusual way.

Mr. Benedict will also give a short talk preceding the evening sermon. The pastor, Rev. Walter E. Edmonds, will be glad to welcome you to the church service, as well as the Endeavorers will to their Christian Endeavor service.

METHODIST BROTHERHOOD

At the meeting of the Brotherhood of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, held at the church rooms Friday evening, the following officials were elected for the present session: Mr. Ed M. Lee, president; Mr. Arthur Lindley, first vice-president; Mr. C. W. Ingledue, second vice-president; Mr. A. W. Tower, third vice-president; Mr. A. M. Brooks, fourth vice-president; Mr. L. SURPRISE TO GUILD

When St. Margaret's Guild of St. Mark's Episcopal church met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Hallahan, 1010 Lomita avenue, the ladies were agreeably surprised to find that their hostess had prepared for them a fine Halloween entertainment. The room was appropriately decorated in Halloween style and a dainty repast had been provided. The table was lighted with candles held in the ghostly fingers of Halloween skeletons, pumpkins with candles shed a weird light on the scene and everything was suitable to the season.

After supper games were played and a pleasant and enjoyable time spent. Prizes for the guessing games were awarded to Miss Ethel Land, Miss Bessie Provolt, Miss Ethel Reed and Miss Mattiebell Provolt. Those present were: Miss Olga Purit, Miss Athena Purit, Miss Irene Reed, Miss Ethel Reed, Miss Ethel Land, Miss Gertrude Champlain, Miss Agnes Frolick, Mrs. Eva Peck, Mrs. Frae Wells, Miss Cecilia Wilson, Miss Iris Bannock, Miss Lillian Mills, Miss Mattiebell Provolt, Miss Bessie Provolt.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

"Capturing Politics for God," subject of "pulpit editorial" Sunday evening, 7:30. Senator Benedict from the 34th District is the speaker. The pastor's sermon will follow. Subject, "The Seeking Shepherd."

The Junior Endeavor will meet at 3 p. m. C. E. meeting, 6:15.

Annual praise meeting, Sunday, Oct. 31, the Woman's Missionary Society will hold their Annual Praise Service at the 11 o'clock hour. The pastor, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, will have charge. Mr. Charles A. Glunz, superintendent of the Industrial department of Silliman Institute, Philippine Islands, will give an address. Miss Irwin and choir will furnish special music. If you have had blessings for which you praise God, envelopes will be provided for a thank offering. "Bring an offering and come into His courts." "Enter into His gates with thanksgiving and into His courts with praise; be thankful unto Him and bless His name."

W. C. T. U. SOCIAL

That a little nonsense now and then is relished even by the wisest. W. C. T. U.'s was the experience of that progressive society who enjoyed the Halloween social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Burns, 16 Piedmont avenue, Friday night. The beautiful house was decorated in the colors of the season, black and orange, with festoons of the same colors on the walls and from the lights. The usual black cats, witches riding broomsticks and other Halloween symbols made a pleasing setting for the feast.

The guests were met at the curb by tall ghosts and escorted to the house by little witches. A pleasing program was given with piano and violin pieces and humorous readings, by Mrs. Leona Brice, May Brice, Ruth Palmer, Evangeline Quackenbush, Faith Darling, Ruth Morton and Hazel Walters. Mrs. Nannie Palmer acted as master of ceremonies. The first prize in the contest of guessing the number of petals in a chrysanthemum was won by Mrs. H. L. Anderson. Mr. George Lemon got the booby prize. The number was 539. Mr. George Lemon won the first prize for guessing the number of words to be made out of "Halloween." The number was 26. Messrs. Burns, Evans Lerner and Morton gave a ludicrous performance with a suitcase, which elicited much laughter and applause. Mrs. J. A. Quackenbush told fortunes; Mrs. Kate Evans told ghost stories. Mr. George Lemon told the tragic story, "The Murder of a Mosquito."

Outside a huge fire had been lit and the whole company enjoyed a wiener roast there, with sandwiches, pumpkin pie, doughnuts and other delicacies. They then returned to the house and after a pleasant time went home delighted.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

(By Rev. R. W. Mottern)
Sunday, Oct. 31. Topic, "Increase and Efficiency: Two Permanent Christian Endeavor Ideals." Eph. 4:16.

Bible help: First increase campaign, Acts 2:14,37-41; effectual work, Acts 5:12-16; increase in effort, 2 Tim. 2:1-5; learning by doing, John 7:14-18; persistence in well-doing, Heb. 10:35-39; efficiency crowned, 1 Pet. 5:1-4.

Seed Notes

These two ideals are absolutely necessary to show in evidence the society is growing. For if it is not increasing nor yet becoming more efficient in developing its members, then it is time to let it die a natural death, for its trend is that way and will surely reach it. But where there is a loyal and steady faith, unmoved by hindrances, devoted and determined to "work out" what the Holy Spirit is daily "working in," that society is far from a back number, far from dead.

Now, strange as it may seem, the entire trend of today in every conceivable line of human interest is that of increase; efforts are made straining every nerve to become more efficient Christians! Do we value the nurses, clerks, laborers, capitalists, but how so many halt at the threshold of becoming more efficient Christians? Do we value the blessed life of a Christian, and all that it means in its underlying power to help one become in every human advancement what is desired less than the common work of the day? Are worldly things to receive more interest than that which appeals to us morally? As Christians it is as much our full duty to be "diligent in business" and "fervent in spirit serving the Lord." We are to do "with our might what our hands find to do," serving God in everything. "What concerneth every man is not whether he fail or succeed. But that he do his duty; For the cause is greater than the man."

Now, as a society, what is your aim? To meet and pray and sing? That is good; but "good for nothing" when observing the reason for Christian Endeavor itself. For it is not Self, but for Others, those who need outside of the society. As individuals, it's duty is to "serve." And surely the complete organization of a society in every part is with a view to bring the best talent to bear upon the members to stir up the most unselfish endeavor in helping others. In Endeavor it is as much worthy of condemnation in a needy world, when its members refuse to seek and do the Master's great business, as it is for a college boy or girl to refuse to get into the great world work, awaiting them, after they have fitted themselves for it. An ideal member is one who is conscious of his personal obligation, of the demand on him by the world of sin, wrong and shame, inspired by the Pledge, by prayer and effort, honestly endeavors to do his duty.

Let the spirit of the hero of Protestantism, Luther, become ours in diligence, true godliness and piety, and our efficiency in the things of God and humanity will be easily proved by what we have done.

HARD TIMES BARBECUE

Mrs. D. E. Shadrach of 313 E. Colorado boulevard entertained about seventy-five friends last Wednesday evening in a very unusual and happy manner, with an old-fashioned barbecue. This was an old-time outdoor party and was thoroughly enjoyed by the children and their parents who were fortunate enough to be present. The grounds and walnut grove had been transformed for the occasion, being resplendent in hallowe'en colors and strung with high power electric lights. Some of the guests came in hard times garb and others in grotesque or beautiful Hallowe'en costumes. A platform had been erected under the trees and the piano moved out. While the younger guests indulged in games the parents enjoyed a musical program, participated in by Miss Jean Caulfield, who gave a whistling solo, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford H. Cunningham, who furnished vocal and piano selections; Miss Evangeline Quackenbush, who rendered a violin solo, and the hostess, Mrs. Shadrach, who sang very graciously. Hard times were not in evidence when the time came for the serving of the supper. There was an abundance of barbecued beef, home-made bread, home baked beans, home-made candy, ice cream and cake, all prepared under the direction of the hostess herself.

Children and grown-ups all had a perfectly wonderful time at Mrs. Shadrach's unusual party and will remember the evening as one of the happiest in their lives.

Lee, Dr. Wood Comstock, Mr. J. W. Stauffacher and Mr. T. W. Watson, city manager. The High School orchestra will play throughout the evening and Mrs. Greely Kolts will sing, accompanied by Mrs. John R. Barrows. The meeting is open to the public and a special invitation is given to the patrons of the school.

MRS. OGG'S SURPRISE

The self-invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Bright, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. Latter, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Baurhyte will speak on "Maternity Cottage." Mrs. E. Percy Peal, member of the national board of the Needlework Guild of America, will speak on that organization and its work.

TROPICO

The social hall of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Tropico was most elaborately decorated in ferns and large fluffy, white and yellow chrysanthemums Friday evening, when a reception was tendered Rev. and Mrs. Don Ford, the former who but recently accepted the pastorate of this church. Many guests, from Tropico, Glendale and other cities, welcomed Rev. and Mrs. Ford and extended a gracious hospitality that was genuine and sincere.

A short, interesting program featured the evening's entertainment. Prayer was offered by Rev. Samuel Goodsell, after which Rev. Henry Goodsell gave the address of welcome. Mrs. Sydney Fredericksen contributed a vocal number. Mrs. Eustace Benton Moore appeared in two very clever readings. Mrs. Fredericksen and Dr. P. A. Martin added a vocal duet, after which Rev. Ford concluded the program with a short, pleasing response that very cleverly expressed his and Mrs. Ford's appreciation of the cordial welcome extended them. Following the social hour dainty refreshments were served by the Ladies' Aid society. Mrs. Melvina, president of the Ladies' Aid, and Mrs. Eustace Benton Moore being among the many ladies of the church who assisted in rendering the reception such a social success.

Among the many merry Hallowe'en parties to be given this evening there will be none merrier than the one which has been arranged by the Philaetha Girls club of the First Methodist Episcopal church, and which will be given at the home of Miss Marjorie Wallace on Tropico avenue. The Hallowe'en dance as announced to be given by the ladies of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon club has been postponed indefinitely.

Mrs. Frank I. Marsh of North Central avenue is spending a few days in Burbank as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. David Wyckoff.

One of the pleasing features of the devotional services of the First Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday morning will be the special musical program as arranged by the choir, of which Mr. A. J. McAdams is director.

MASQUERADE PARTY

Quite a unique masquerade party for the Hallowe'en season was given by Mr. and Mrs. Blake Franklin, 1408 W. Third street, Friday evening. The beautiful home of the host and hostess was charmingly decorated with yellow chrysanthemums and an abundance of ferns and other plants. The guests came in costumes. There was the usual number of counts, countesses, milk maids, knights, cavaliers, clowns and other characters that go to make up such an entertainment. Mrs. H. V. Everly won the prize for guessing the greatest number of persons in mask. The evening was spent in all manner of pleasing games and dainty refreshments were served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Everly, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Van Dyke, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Yarrick, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Vandeburgh, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Chappell, Mr. and Mrs. McReynolds, Miss Bates and Mrs. Mabel Ocker.

MRS. WELLS RETURNS

Mrs. Richard H. Wells returned yesterday to her home at 1504 West Broadway, after a four months' sojourn in other states. In Colorado she visited Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo and in Arizona she visited Williams and the Grand Canyon. Mrs. Wells is now engaged in becoming acquainted with her new grandson, Master Rhinard Flint, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Flint. SALE OF LINCOLN RELICS

The coat he wore when shot, his finger ring, rifle, inkstand, watch-key and other intimate personal relics owned and used by Abraham Lincoln, will be sold "under the hammer" at the Anderson galleries today. Minor sales already have been made.

Among these objects are the Lincoln-Brooner rifle, bought in common by Lincoln and Henry Brooner for $15 and used by them in their shooting trips until 1830; a lock of Lincoln's hair, and a cane and umbrella handles owned by the Great Emancipator.

These things are a part of the collection of Lincolniana formed by John E. Burton, of Milwaukee, who has been assembling them for fifty years. Among the books and manuscripts to be sold are nearly all the biographies of Lincoln, including several in foreign languages, many portraits, the only known copy of the pamphlet entitled "Reasons Against the Renomination of Abraham Lincoln;" the only copy ever offered at auction of "The Bloody Juntio;" Lincoln's last order for a pardon, two leaves from Lincoln's sum book of about 1824, with his autograph, and a series of seven documents signed by Lincoln which reveal four professional associations "about which nothing has been generally known."

LUTHERAN CHURCH

As announced last week tomorrow being the 31st of October, the Protestant world will more or less celebrate the anniversary of its birth by the great act of Luther's at Wittenburg, in nailing his objections to the Papacy on the Castle Church door. That bold and daring act spread with the rapidity of lightning. It was scarcely a month until they reached Rome. In two weeks they spread over Germany and in four weeks they traversed nearly the whole of Christendom, as if the very angels of God were the swift winged messengers. Not many weeks after they were sold by a traveler in Jerusalem. That we are a neutral nation in this great European war, and far from the seat of same, being at peace with the whole world, we can more fully enter into the civic feature of this anniversary, as well as its religious aspect, for the great Reformation was a civic upheaval as well as a religious one. Being at peace this anniversary can more fully be entered into by representatives of all nations.

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock Rev. Mottern, pastor of the Lutheran Church of this city, will speak on "The Echoes from Luther's Hammer."

Rev. Norton, of this city, will occupy the pulpit in the evening at 7:30, as the pastor is called to the First Church in Los Angeles to deliver the same Reformation address.

Glad to have many take advantage of these special services.
